Midcentury Industrial Table Lamp, Scandinavia, circa 1930-1940s

DESCRIPTION

This striking midcentury industrial table lamp is a true vintage gem, hailing from Scandinavia in the 1930s/40s. The lamp is designed to be mounted on various surfaces, such as tables, desks or bedside tables, with a straight arm that extends upward to support the unique lamp shape. The lamp's design has a subtle nod to the modernist aesthetics of Le Corbusier, with its clean lines and functional form. The lampshade is reminiscent of the utilitarian designs of the modernist movement, while the straight arm and lamp head reflect the functionalist ideals of the era. The lamp's gorgeous patina gives it a distinct character and tells the story of its long and interesting life.

The lamp features its original wire and light switch. It would make a fantastic addition to any modern interior, adding a touch of vintage charm and personality.
